

Starbar RR and HDS type elements - Color Coding Protocol

In order to be able to readily identify the various types of Starbar rod elements we are manufacturing that all look visually similar, the following color coding is used as standard on all RR & HDS type elements.

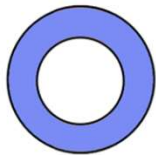

The elements ends are color coded on the end face on one end only. This way, odd ended elements may still be marked green on the long end (also for ease of identification for the customer at the time of installation)

Gold: HDS + LMA

Red: RR + LMA

Blue: HDS only

No color: RR

Contact your local I Squared R representative or contact our customer service department directly, if you have any questions.